JUNG IN IRELAND SEMINAR & GLENSTAL FACULTY

Nuala Ahern, co-founder of Mythic Links, is an environmentalist, political analyst and writer on ecology and psychology. A psychologist by profession and a former Member of the European Parliament (where she was an Irish representative for over ten years) she continues to work both in ecology and psychology and leads trips to mythological sites.

Ashok Bedi, M.D., Jungian Analyst, is Clinical Professor in Psychiatry at the Medical College of Wisconsin and President of the Jung Institute of Chicago. Trained in India and Great Britain, he is especially interested in the emerging frontiers of Spirituality and Healing. Among his many publications are "Accidents and Synchronicity: Messages From the Soul"; Path to the Soul, and Retire Your Family Karma.

Mark Patrick Hederman, Abbot of Glenstal Abbey, is a Benedictine Monk, Philosopher and frequent guest on Irish National Television. A monk of Glenstal Abbey for the last 40 years, and founding editor of the "Journal of Irish Studies," he spent the first years of the new century wandering in search of the Holy Spirit — allowing inspiration and coincidence to lead him. Among his many publications are Walkabout: Life as Holy Spirit and Kissing the Dark.

John Hill, M.A., a graduate of the C.G. Jung Institute of Zurich, is in private practice in Zurich, and a training analyst of ISAP. Born and raised in Ireland, he is considered a leading Jungian expert in the field of Celtic mythology. His publications include articles on "Celtic Myth"; "Dreams," "Christian Mysticism" and At Home in the World: Sounds and Symmetries of Belonging.

Mary Mackenna, Fellow Royal Institute of Architects, has a special interest in the visual and symbolic qualities of place in the traditions of Irish myth and sacred architecture. She has published papers on mythological landscapes, and presented at The National Museum of Ireland, International Conferences, Irish Universities, Arts Festivals and on study trips.

Aryeh Maidenbaum, Ph.D., is Director of the N.Y. Center for Jungian Studies and a Jungian Analyst in private practice in New York City and the Hudson Valley. Among his publications are "The Search for Spirit in Jungian Psychology," "Sounds of Silence"; and Jung and the Shadow of Anti-Semitism. On the faculty of NYU for eighteen years, he is a contributing author to Current Theories of Psychoanalysis, Robert Langs, ed.

Christina Mulvey, Dipl. Psych., is a Jungian Analyst in Wicklow, Ireland. Involved in training and professional development in education and psychology, she incorporates equine assisted therapy as part of her practice. With a strong background in literature, Christina lectures frequently at the Jung Institute of Zurich and internationally. Her publications include a book and CD, "The Woolgatherer — the Poetry of Analysis."

Máirín Ní Nualláin, M.D., is a Psychiatrist, Analytical Psychologist and Group Analyst who lives in Connemara Ireland. In private practice in Galway, Dr. Nualláin teaches in the M.A. Psychotherapy training program at Dublin City University. She is a native Irish speaker and is a founding member of the Bard Summer School (Clare Island) which explores the contemporary significance of Irish mythology.

Nóirín Ní Riain, Ph.D., is an internationally acclaimed Irish singer who has performed worldwide. A theologian and musicologist, she was awarded the first ever Doctorate in Theology from the University of Limerick. Author of books, articles and CDs, including "Towards a Theology of Listening," she has been the subject of a major documentary by RTE (Irish National Television).

Diana Rubin, L.C.S.W., co-Director of the New York Center for Jungian Studies, was a staff psychotherapist at the Postgraduate Center for Mental Health's Institute for the Performing Artist for many years. Currently in private practice in New York City and New Paltz, N.Y., she specializes in working with creative and performing artists and leads workshops on the interface of creativity and psychology.

Ann Belford Ulanov, Ph.D., Professor of Psychiatry and Religion at Union Theological Seminary, is a renowned Jungian analyst in private practice in New York City and a prolific author of books and articles. Among her many publications are Spiritual Aspects of Clinical Work; The Functioning Transcendent; The Female Ancestors of Christ, and The Wisdom of the Psyche. Additionally, together with her late husband Barry Ulanov, she co-authored many books and articles, including Primary Speech: A Psychology of Prayer; Cinderella & Her Sisters: The Envied and the Envyng, and Religion and the Unconscious. Her most recent books are The Unshuttered Heart: Opening to Aliveness and Deadness in the Self, and The Living God and Our Living Psyche.

“The Archetype of the Wanderer”

County Galway — March 2 - 9, 2010

The power and images of the Archetype of Wanderer will be the focus of this seminar. Some of the themes we will be exploring include exile and return, the relevance of uncertainty, and the difficult and sometimes painful journey we must take as a path to Individuation. This seminar will shed light on the archetype of the wanderer and its impact on our own experiences of physical and psychological wandering.

Our home in Ireland will be county Galway. Known for its stunning scenery, vibrant University town, spectacular rivers, lakes and Galway Bay, county Galway is an important center of Gaeltach (Irish language) culture and an ideal location for exploring our theme.

This unique seminar combines presentations and smaller workshops (some experiential) with discussion, dialogue and interaction with our outstanding faculty. Additionally, an optional tour to the Burren (guided by expert faculty) will be offered as well as ample time for exploring Galway on our own and enjoying the wonderful food, traditional music and warm hospitality of the Irish people.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

A Soul Experience with the Monks of Glenstal Abbey

March 9 - 14, 2010

Glenstal Abbey, an active Benedictine monastery on the Southwest coast of Ireland, sits on 350 acres — with streams, lakes, woodland paths and a magnificent walled garden. Surrounding a castle built in the romantic Norman style, and home to a community of monks, Glenstal is world famous for its choir, remarkable collection of Russian Icons, and prestigious public school. Additionally, it houses one of the most important private libraries in Ireland, containing not only significant theological works but a substantial collection of antiquarian books (many dating back to the 15th century), Irish history, Irish literature, biography and art.

During the course of this unique program, we will be hosted by Mark Patrick Hederman, Glenstal's Abbot, hear presentations and engage in dialogue and discussion with Jungian analysts Ann Ulanov and John Hill, and some of the Monks (noted authors and scholars in their respective fields). In addition, throughout our time at Glenstal, we will be guided personally by Nóirín Ní Riain, an internationally acclaimed Irish singer of spiritual songs, who lives on the grounds of the Abbey and is an integral part of its sacred musical life. A highlight of our experience will be the opportunity to interact with the monks and join them for meals at the Abbey.

*Itinerary in Brief

TUESDAY, MARCH 9

For those needing transportation, board coach at airport for Adare (for those participating in the Seminar program, complimentary transportation from Galway to Adare will be provided) — considered one of Ireland's loveliest villages. Known for its pretty, thatched cottages, many of which house antique shops, crafts shops and picturesque restaurants, Adare will be a perfect base for our program at Glenstal Abbey. Check in to Dunraven Arms — one of Ireland's premier hotels and centrally located in the heart of the village. Rest and relax before Orientation and Welcoming ❖ Dinner at our hotel.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10

Upon arrival at Glenstal, we will be welcomed by Father Mark Patrick Hederman. Morning presentations will include Brother Colmán Ó Clabaigh (author of The Irish Benedictines: A History) on "Monasticism," and Jungian analyst Ann Ulanov, on "The Unconscious in Prayer and Prayer in the Unconscious." At noon, we are invited to join the monks of Glenstal and participate in (or observe) the ritual of Mass and experience firsthand their traditional Gregorian chanting. Or, for those who prefer, time for meditation, journaling or enjoying the grounds and gardens of Glenstal. Following ❖ lunch, Nóirín Ní Riain and several of the monks will introduce us to the many facets of the Monastery — including its famed Library, Icon Chapel and meditation path, before returning to Adare for dinner on our own.

THURSDAY, MARCH 11

This morning, Nóirín Ní Riain and Mark Patrick Hederman will explore the theme of "Music, Mysticism and the Religious Imagination." Following lunch and a brisk walk to Glenstal's historic "Caraig an Aifirinn" (Rock of the Mass), accompanied by Nóirín Ní Riain, presentations by Mark Patrick Hederman, "Space and Time in Monastic Worship," and Nóirín Ní Riain: "Ausculta — Listen with the ear of the Heart" (St. Benedict, 5th century): An Exploration of new kinds of listening through Spiritual Song and Story. Evening: Option of participating in (or observing) Vespers (in which Gregorian chant plays a significant role) with the beautiful music and choir of Glenstal's monks. Or, for those who prefer, free time to relax, read and enjoy the grounds before we dine together with the monks of Glenstal (included).

FRIDAY, MARCH 12

Today will begin with a presentation by Father Gregory Collins, "Introducing the Glenstal Abbey Icons" which are housed in the Monastery's Icon Chapel. This Chapel, which we have all seen on the first day, is itself a singularly mystical experience. Its dramatic lighting and inspiring contemporary architecture provide an ideal setting for these centuries old masterpieces. Using images and illustrations, Father Gregory (author of The Russian Icons of Glenstal) will shed light on the meaning and symbols portrayed in these breathtaking Icons. Following a break for coffee & tea, Jungian analyst John Hill (himself a former student at Glenstal) will discuss "The Many Faces of God: Straddling the Call of the Spirit and the Needs of the Soul." Afternoon meeting with our Jungian faculty to share the thoughts and feelings of our experience at Glenstal; time to journal, meditate, leisurely meander on the grounds, and/or explore Glenstal's renowned Library which houses over 70,000 books.

Evening: Free...dinner on our own in Adare.

SATURDAY, MARCH 13

Our final day at Glenstal will include a presentation by Father Seán Ó Duinn on "Celtic Spirituality: Where Three Streams Meet," and a closing discussion led by Mark Patrick Hederman, the Monks who shared their wisdom with us, and our Jungian faculty. Afternoon visit to nearby Lough Gur, personally guided by Brother Colmán Ó Clabaigh. Lough Gur is the site of dozens of pre-historic monuments dating back over 5,000 years. With its tranquil lake and pre-historic mystique, Lough Gur is one of Ireland's most important pre-Celtic archaeological sites. One of the major sites to the west of the lake is the largest and finest stone circle in Ireland consisting of 113 large stones. This evening, a festive, closing ❖dinner — with music by Nóirín Ní Riain and her talented sons.

SUNDAY, MARCH 14

Departures for airport...or, for those participating in study/tour (transportation included), the Dingle Peninsula.

PLEASE NOTE:

- * Tentative itinerary, subject to change.
- ❖ Included in cost of the program are full breakfast and lunch served daily; Opening Dinner on Tuesday, March 9, dinner with the monks of Glenstal on Thursday, March 11, and Closing Dinner on Saturday, March 14. Additionally, for those also registering for study/tour, transportation to Dingle and complimentary night at Dingle Skellig hotel provided.

Exile and Return: The Landscape of Celtic Mythology

Dingle, March 15 - 22, 2010

The story of exile, whether enforced or voluntary, and return to a place that has changed beyond recognition is an archetype that defines much of Celtic mythology. An exploration of myths of exile and return, and some of the landscape where they take place, will be the focus of this year's Study/Tour of Ireland. The stories of the Children of Lir, the wandering of Aengus, the mythic voyage of St. Brendan the Navigator, and the theme of dreams as inner wanderings of the soul will provide us with access to a world of powerful archetypal images.

Using the scenic, rugged Dingle Peninsula as our base, this study/tour will bring life to the mythology through visits to some of the most awe-inspiring sites in Ireland, including Mount Brandon, one of Ireland's Sacred Mountains; Branson Creek — the tiny harbor from where the legendary Brendan voyage set sail; Dunmore, spectacular cliff-edge fort, and Gallarus Oratory — a perfect relic of early Irish architecture. The myths, the discussions, and the sites will add to our understanding of the archetype and its impact on our own experience of physical and psychological exile and return.

MONDAY, MARCH 15

For those needing transportation, board coach at airport for Dingle. Check in to Dingle Skellig hotel; rest, relax and enjoy the hotel's amenities before Orientation and Welcoming ♦Dinner (included). (Please note: for those participating in Glenstal and study/tour programs, complimentary transportation from Adare and accommodations at Dingle Skellig on March 14 provided.)

TUESDAY, MARCH 16

Following the first of our full, hearty Irish Breakfasts, morning study session with Nóirín Ní Riain, "Songs of Wander and Wonder from the Irish Tradition," and Robin van Loben Sels, on the theme of "Wandering Aengus" — made famous through the poem of W.B. Yeats. Following a delicious lunch (included) at the Skellig, afternoon walking tour in Dingle with Conor Ellard — our superb, experienced Irish guide.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17

This morning, we will focus on the theme of "Dreams as Inner Wanderings: How Do We Reach Them?" with Jungian Analysts Donald Kalsched and Robin van Loben Sels leading us and facilitating discussion. At noon, for those interested, walk to town and participate in, or observe, the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade — one of Ireland's most festive events. (Early risers may also choose to view the first parade of the day in Ireland, always held in Dingle, with the Dingle Fife and Drum Band marching to the harbor at dawn. The parade ends at Dingle harbor as the local priest blesses freshly picked shamrocks and distributes them to everyone by 7:00 am). Afternoon free for exploring Dingle on our own.

Evening: Michael Gibbons will introduce us to the landscape of Ireland, with wit and wonderful images, in his presentation: "Even on their Knees: the Pilgrimage Mountains of Ireland."

THURSDAY, MARCH 18

Full day field trip★ with Michael Gibbons as our guide. Departing from our hotel early this morning, we will spend the day exploring the western tip of Dingle Peninsula — including Dun Beag, an Iron Age fort, and Dunmore — largest cliff-edge fort in Ireland, situated on over 80 acres overlooking the sea, and crowned with an Ogham stone. From there, we will drive to the Blasket Visitor Centre before walking on to Clogher Head, and Ferriter's Cove — a 7,000 year old Mesolithic site. Lunch along the way (included).

FRIDAY, MARCH 19

Donald Kalsched will lead this morning's study session exploring the legendary voyage of Saint Brendan the Navigator to the "Isle of the Blessed" — a quest for paradise and spiritual adventure that is said to have led him to discover America nine hundred years before Columbus. Following our study session, and accompanied by Michael Gibbons, we will visit Brandon Cove (where the Brendan voyage is said to have begun) and a "fulacht-fiadha," bronze age cooking site, at Baille an Lochaidh before arriving at Mount Brandon, Ireland's second tallest mountain. Lunch along the way (included).

SATURDAY, MARCH 20

Today's program will begin with Donald Kalsched, Robin van Loben Sels and Aryeh Maidenbaum all leading a discussion on "The Children of Lir" (for those interested, upon registration, a copy of the story will be provided). Turned into swans by a jealous stepmother, the Children of Lir are exiled from their home and endure many years of hardship on stormy waters before they can return home. Following our study session, visits to the early monastic site of Reask, Kilmalkedar (associated with St. Brendan) and the Gallarus Oratory — majestically located on the Dingle Peninsula. Lunch along the way (included).

SUNDAY, MARCH 21

Nóirín Ní Riain will begin our final day with "Song as an Archetype of the Irish Soul," followed by a full faculty panel and participant discussion to share our thoughts, feelings and experiences of this past week. Afternoon free for rest, relaxation, last minute shopping in Dingle and/or or visiting places of personal interest. Evening: Closing, festive ♦dinner (included).

MONDAY, MARCH 22

Departures for airport.

PLEASE NOTE:

- * Tentative itinerary, subject to change.
- ♦ Included in cost of the program are full Irish breakfast daily; Opening and Closing Dinners Monday, March 15, and 21 and lunches Tuesday, March 16, Thursday-Saturday, March 18, 19 & 20.
- ★ Study/tour entails considerable walking — at times on uneven or hilly terrain. Participants need to be able to keep up with the group; please feel free to call our office if you have any questions.

Guest Scholar and Archeological Guide

Michael Gibbons, Member of the Croagh Patrick Archaeological Research Team and one of Ireland's most respected archeologists, is a popular presenter on archaeology throughout Ireland. He has presented worldwide, including Oxford, Cambridge, Harvard and the National Geographic Society, and is re-nowned for weaving his vast knowledge of Ireland's sacred sites and stunning scenery with his wit and stories of Irish history, her people, and culture.

OUR ACCOMMODATIONS

“The Archetype of the Wanderer”

GLENLO ABBEY HOTEL March 2 - 9, 2010

Located just two miles from Galway city, The Glenlo is considered Galway's finest and most luxurious hotel. Set on 138 acres at the edge of Lough Corrib, this 18th century country residence is famous for its warm, Irish hospitality, magnificent grounds, superb service and award-winning cuisine. With views of Lough Corrib and 46 superbly furnished bedrooms, the Glenlo is also renowned for its world class fishing, archery, golf and Pullman Restaurant — created from a converted 1927 Orient Express dining car.

“Soul Experience with the Monks of Glenstal Abbey”

DUNRAVEN ARMS HOTEL March 9 - 14, 2010

Situated in the heart of Adare, Ireland's “prettiest village,” the Dunraven Arms, established in 1792, is a deluxe, Old World hotel with impeccable service and authentic Irish ambiance. Its spacious bedrooms are tastefully furnished with lovely antiques. It is known for its award winning restaurant and health & leisure center — including indoor, heated pool. Surrounded by picturesque thatched cottages and within easy driving distance of Glenstal Abbey, the Dunraven Arms is an ideal base for our program.

Study/Tour: “Exile and Return...”

DINGLE SKELLIG HOTEL March 15 - 22, 2010

Overlooking the dramatic shores of Dingle Bay, the Skellig is the Dingle Peninsula's premier hotel. From here, we will enjoy those contrasts that define Western Ireland — green, rugged mountains set against luxurious sandy beaches. A five minute walk to Dingle Town, with its lovely shops, galleries, craft centers, pubs and restaurants, the Skellig, known for its fine cuisine and fresh, locally caught seafood, has its own Health Center — with indoor heated pool, jacuzzi and eucalyptus steam room.
